

ONE TRUE PLACE

(Neil Murray)

One of these days you'll be wanderin Over sea and over land
To a place where we can be together once again
And although we now are parted
I do believe That those who truly love each other Will meet again

So although your heart is heavy and your mind needs to rest
Even though your days are reeling in and coming to an end Let there be no sorrow
Let there be no pain
For there comes to you a promise that We'll meet again

In the real in the one true place
With you

You may think I've gone but I'm still here in the next room
You may think it was wrong for me to leave you all alone
But some things are bigger than both of us to understand here and now but I promise you there will be no sorrow there will be no pain when we meet
again
